

2-day Programme on Decision Making for Nurse Managers

The aim of the two study days is to enhance the decision-making ability of Clinical Nurse Managers in the operational setting. As outlined in the Office for Health Management report (February 2000) decision making is accepted as a core competency for nurse managers.

The objectives of the study days are;

- To enhance the skill of decision making
- To gain an awareness of the factors that determine positive decision outcomes
- To examine decision-making theory
- To learn how to apply a logical process
- To appreciate experience as a method of learning rule of thumb decisions
- To apply practical decision making strategy in the clinical/ operational setting.
- To enhance decision making as a method of promoting evidence based practice

Joe Wolfe & Associates believes in the dignity of all individuals and is committed to ensuring that equality in service provision in all aspects of the work of the company remains one of the core principles underpinning the service